

Barbara Signori

Barbara Signori is Head of the Department e-Helvetica at the Swiss National Library in Berne, Switzerland; e-Helvetica is the collection of digitally-born Swiss publications - e.g. websites, e-books, e-journals, theses, official publications.

Barbara Signori is also Head of Web Archive Switzerland. Web Archive Switzerland is a collection of websites with a bearing on Switzerland and the Swiss people.

Prior to becoming Head of the Department e-Helvetica Barbara Signori has been a project manager for many years, working on a wide variety of projects to build the collection of digitally-born publications. She has also been involved in the technical projects to develop the long-term archiving system based on the OAIS model. Before her work in digital preservation, Barbara Signori worked in the Cataloguing and National Bibliography Department of the Swiss National Library.

Barbara Signori holds a diploma in library science and studied Project Management at the University of Klagenfurt.
